Psalm 145:9-16 (NIV)

9 The Lord is good to all; he has compassion on all he has made. 10 All your works praise you, Lord; your faithful people extol you. 11 They tell of the glory of your kingdom and speak of your might, 12 so that all people may know of your mighty acts and the glorious splendor of your kingdom. 13 Your kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and your dominion endures through all generations. The Lord is trustworthy in all he promises and faithful in all he does. 14 The Lord upholds all who fall and lifts up all who are bowed down. 15 The eyes of all look to you, and you give them their food at the proper time. 16 You open your hand and satisfy the desires of every living thing.

Look again at some of the amazing attributes of God we read about in this passage. God is good, compassionate, mighty, glorious, everlasting, faithful, upholding, and satisfying. Wow! We truly serve an amazing God!

Philippians 4:19 (NIV) reminds us, "And my God will meet all your needs according to the riches of his glory in Christ Jesus." Let me ask you a question, do you believe that God will provide for your needs? And maybe an even more challenging question, are you thankful for how he provides for you?

As we enter this season of Thanksgiving, we may be tempted to look at the things we do not have or the wants and desires that have gone unfulfilled. We sometimes feel that we miss out or are left out. We may be tempted to not be satisfied with our life.

Here is the truth – God opens his hand and satisfies every living creature. God is enough! Jesus is enough! More than worldly possessions where moth and rust can destroy, He offers us purpose. He offers us forgiveness. He offers us salvation. He offers us abundant and eternal life through a relationship with Him!

So, this Thanksgiving season spend some time reflecting on how to find satisfaction in your relationship with Jesus Christ and not in the things of this world. This is a satisfaction that lasts for all eternity! Thank you, Lord, for who you were, are, and will always be! And thank you for loving me!

Don't forget to set your clocks back an hour on Sunday, November 2!

Darren Chisholm

I wanted to thank everyone that reached out and provided prayers and comfort during the difficult time of the passing of my mom, Lynda Parrish. Melanie and I really appreciate it and could feel the love.

Chris and Melanie Parrish

I'm overwhelmed by the number of people who came to help me celebrate my 100th birthday. The cards and gifts, or just your presence, made it extra special. My thanks to everyone and to those who helped with preparations. God loves each one of you and so do I.

Betty LaGrange

I want to thank my church family for all the cards, calls, meals, and visits I received over the past few weeks. Prayers have been answered as I have experienced much healing.

Jim Marlowe

Thank you, church family, for all the love and support that you have poured out on Worth and me since my accident. I cannot tell you how much your cards, visits, calls, food gifts, and especially your prayers have meant to us. You have blessed me beyond measure with your love, and I cannot say thank you enough.

Beth Younts

I, along with my family, would like to express our sincere gratitude for your prayers and kindness shown during my dad's illness and death. Every card, call, text, gift, and most of all your prayers, meant so much to us during this difficult time. It is amazing the love and support that all of you have shown us! Having such a loving and thoughtful church family as we go through life's journey is such a tremendous blessing!

The Songs of the Thankful Heart

Many of the hymns we sing at Thanksgiving sound bright and triumphant — full of joy, harmony, and celebration. Yet behind many of those cheerful melodies are stories not of comfort, but of hardship. The most enduring songs of gratitude were often written by people who knew suffering firsthand and still chose to give thanks.

Consider “Now Thank We All Our God.” It’s often sung as a hearty anthem of praise, but its author, Martin Rinkart, wrote it during unimaginable loss. Rinkart was a Lutheran pastor in Eilenburg, Germany, during the Thirty Years’ War — a time of brutal conflict, famine, and disease. When plague struck his city, he found himself as the only surviving pastor, performing as many as fifty funerals a day, including that of his own wife. His home became a shelter for the sick and starving. And yet, surrounded by suffering, he penned a hymn that speaks of “countless gifts of love” and a God who “still is ours today.”

Those words weren’t written from a place of comfort; they were a declaration of faith — a choice to believe that gratitude and sorrow can coexist, that thanksgiving can rise from ashes.

More than two centuries later, Folliott Pierpoint, a young English poet, looked out across the hills near Bath and wrote the poem “For the Beauty of the Earth.” His life wasn’t marked by war or loss, but by quiet reflection. He saw God’s goodness in the simple, everyday wonders — the sky, the flowers, the love between friends and family. His words remind us that gratitude doesn’t always shout; sometimes it simply notices.

And then there’s “Give Thanks with a Grateful Heart,” written in the 1970s by Henry Smith, a man facing both professional disappointment and the slow loss of his vision. Newly graduated from seminary, Smith couldn’t find a church position. As his sight faded, he clung to the words “And now, let the weak say, “I am strong,” Let the poor say, “I am rich,” because of what the Lord has done for us. Give thanks.” Out of that quiet struggle came a song sung now around the world — a simple chorus of steady, trusting gratitude.

Each of these hymns tells the same truth in its own way: thankfulness is not a reaction to an easy life. It’s a discipline, a way of seeing. Gratitude is what faith sounds like when life is uncertain — the echo of hope that refuses to be silenced.

So as the Thanksgiving season approaches and we lift our voices in these songs — whether centuries old or freshly written — we join a long line of believers who have done the same. People who looked hardship in the eye and still sang, “Now thank we all our God.”

CONNECTIONS

MICHAEL THAMES

Holidays: Good, Bad, or Ugly? The good part about holidays is we get to spend time with those we love, the bad part is when we are separated from them, and the ugly part is when we are surrounded by people but still feel alone. Maybe this is why holidays are full of joy for some people and sorrow for others.

The same can be said about church. Sure, we show up at church to be in the presence of God, but we also show up to be in the presence of God together! We enjoy being with people we love. We miss people when they cannot join us or choose not to, and sometimes people feel alone in a room full of others, even at church.

If you have never thought about this or felt this, count your blessings. If you personally know what I am talking about then I want you to know that you are not alone. I have been there. As a pastor’s kid, I sometimes felt like people knew who I was, but I did not really feel connected. I grew out of that when I realized that other people felt alone in church also. That is when I decided to get connected instead of feeling alone in rooms surrounded by people.

God does not call us to isolate ourselves. He calls us to gather, serve, and to learn together. He even called the animals to walk together to get on the Ark. God wants you to experience the good of being connected to a church family. We want that for you also! We are ready to build that together relationship with you when you are ready for it!

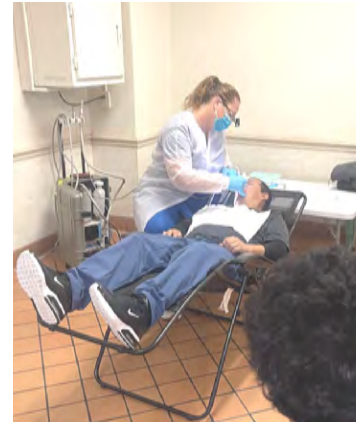

Join a Sunday School Class, small group, or volunteer in a ministry. Enjoy the holidays. You are not alone!

Our NC Baptist on Mission (NCBOM) Dental Clinic was a great success for our community. Our goal was to share Jesus with all patients and families that attended and to provide free, high-quality dental care to community members in need. We had 11 dental professional volunteers, 25 support staff volunteers and 3 volunteers from NCBOM.

- 46 patients received dental screenings and cleaning
- 33 patients received procedures on the Dental Bus, which included:
 - 11 fillings patients
 - 12 extraction patients
 - 10 complete exams with x-rays and other procedures

The positive feedback from patients was a testament to the dedication of the volunteers. Many expressed relief at finally receiving treatment for painful conditions that they had been enduring. We also had the opportunity to be the hands and feet, sharing Christ's love and praying with many of the patients throughout the day.

Thank you to the On Mission Team for supporting this Ministry, to Michael Thames for coordinating, to our church family for their support and for all the volunteers from our community and beyond. We could not have done it without you.

"This service that you perform is not only supplying the needs of the Lord's people but is also overflowing in many expressions of thanks to God."

2 Corinthians 9:12
